

SAMPARK – A social initiative by Kumaun University, Nainital

As per the university order, I am going to conduct an online course for skill development on Web Development. An e-certificate will be provided to all the participants who successfully complete the course. This time I will cover only the basics of web development.

At the end of the course, I'll give you an assignment based on this course. Any student of the university, of any stream, if interested, can join this course. Interested candidates, please register via below given link:
